DISMANTLING ATTACHE CASE—A bomb squad expert removes a 9mm automatic pistol from an attaché case found in a van used to kidnap a Houston woman. The weapon, which could be fired from inside the case, was described by Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson as the type a "hit man" would use. The van was searched by Mississippi Highway Patrol Criminal In-

Deputy kills man holding gun to head of woman

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Hancock County sheriff's deputy "is still a little shaky" and is on administrative leave after shooting to death a gunman threatening his ex-wife and two deputies on Thursday morning.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Nathan (Corky) Hoda Jr. shot and killed Eric Allen Demchek, 38, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as Demchek held a gun to the head of his ex-wife in a van parked at Todd's Mini-Mart on Highway 603 near Waveland, Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

Deputies Hoda and Eddie Thornton had responded to a disturbance in the van when alerted by Sharon Malley, a clerk at the store, after she had heard screams coming from the vehicle.

According to Peterson's account of the incident, Hoda and Thornton had met and were in a parking lot about one mile from the incident as they were preparing to serve papers on a subject in another matter.

The deputies responded within a few minutes and one parked in front and the other in back of the dark green van at about 10:15 a.m. on Christmas Eve.

Hoda and Thornton each approached the van from opposite sides and saw Demchek holding a woman with a gun to her head.

Peterson continued, "He was pointing the gun at the woman (Linda Marie Barkschat) and then at Hoda and said he was going to take everybody down, and everybody would go with him."

The woman later said she was kidnapped by two men at her Houston apartment on Wednesday afternoon and then turned over to her ex-husband, whom she had been divorced from in February 1984.

Demchek had handcuffed her to the inside of his van and apparently got off Interstate 10 Thursday morning at Highway 603 to purchase gas.

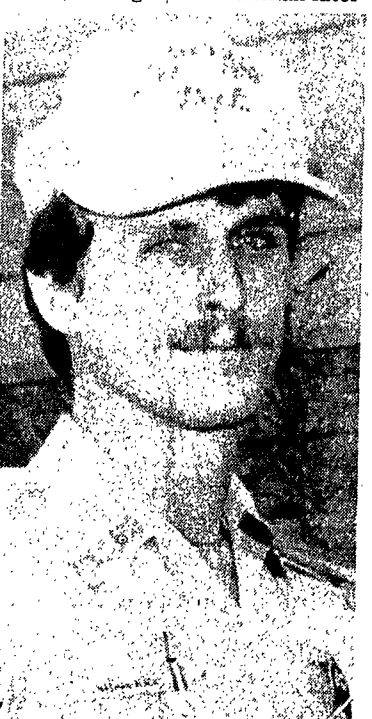

Barkschat told police she had been cuffed by two sets of hand cuffs and was able to get Demchek to take one off later because she was complaining about her wrist hurting.

She then was able to grab a set of the keys while traveling and as her ex-husband was purchasing gas, she was able to free herself.

Demchek apparently had seen she was free from a back window to the van and jumped in and began to wrestle with her and that is when Malley called the sheriff's department, Peterson said.

Hoda and Thornton tried to talk Demchek into dropping his 22-caliber revolver with a silencer on it and held their ground, Peterson stated, adding that the woman later

NATHAN (CORKY) HODA JR. pulled away and Hoda fired, striking the suspect in the shoulder.

Deputy Thornton then jumped into the van trying to subdue the man and as Demchek changed the gun to his other hand, Hoda fired twice again striking him in the chest, Peterson said.

Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet said Demchek had died from multiple gunshot wounds to the chest and was pronounced dead at the scene.

Linda Barkschat told officers that Demchek had struck her several times while she was handcuffed to the van, since about 9 p.m. on Wednesday.

She told authorities her ex-husband had showed her the gun with the silencer and had told her he would shoot her and no one would know it.

When Demchek realized Barkschat was loose, he ordered her to return the key and an argument caused the clerk to call the sheriff's office, Peterson said.

Barkschat said Demchek told her he had wanted to take her home to Pittsburgh where she belonged.

In Houston, she had kicked out a van mirror, which she used to cut him with when he found she was loose in the van.

Both were struggling over the gun when deputies arrived, Peterson reported.

"I have nothing but praises for the officers," Peterson said, adding, "I feel Hoda saved an officer's life as the subject had pointed the weapon at Thornton when Hoda responded with the second and third shot."

"The officers followed proper procedures all the way down the line; they could not have gone by the book any better."

"They waited for an opportunity and got one when the girl broke away and Hoda fired one time and then kept his weapon ready until the subject changed the gun to his other hand to shoot Thornton and Hoda then fired twice more," Peterson said.

The officers had made repeated requests to Demchek to lower the gun, but he would not, Peterson said.

Both Hoda and Thornton are relief deputies, Peterson said.

Hoda will remain on administrative leave while the case is being investigated, which is a routine procedure, Peterson emphasized.

Barkschat, 27, a data entry operator in Houston, said she had a date with her boyfriend on Wednesday, but instead was kidnapped.

She remained at the Hancock County Sheriff's Office until about midnight on Wednesday until her parents arrived from Houston to take her home, Peterson stated.

The van was searched by criminal investigators from the Mississippi State Highway Patrol, who found all types of weapons.

Among them were a sawed-off shotgun which could be fired from inside the van, a stun gun, 22-caliber pistol with a silencer, three sets of handcuffs, an attaché case.

In gunman's van

'James Bond' type of weapons found

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said he never thought he would see in person the type of weapons found in a van involved in a Hancock County deputy killing a Pittsburgh man on Thursday.

"The van had weapons like one would see in a James Bond movie, and I have never seen anything like this before," Peterson added.

The items were found in the van owned by Eric Allen Demchek of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Demchek was shot and killed by Hancock County Deputy Sheriff Nathan (Corky) Hoda in the parking lot of a convenience store on Highway 603 near Interstate 10 as Demchek held his ex-wife a hostage with a gun to her head.

Deputies Hoda and Eddie Thornton had tried to talk Demchek into putting the weapon down without success and the subject was shot by Hoda as his ex-wife managed to pull herself away from him momentarily.

Demchek had a 22-caliber pistol with a silencer, a 9mm Glock automatic pistol which could be fired from inside an attaché case, a shotgun rigged to be fired from inside the van, a stun gun, a spear gun and various other unusual contents, Peterson said.

Also found were several thousands of dollars in $100 bills, Peterson said.

When the rigged shotgun and attaché case were discovered inside the van which had been moved to a fenced area behind the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility to be searched by Criminal Investigators from the Mississippi Highway Patrol, bomb experts were called in Thursday evening.

Capt. Mickey Ladner of MPH called Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau agents in addition to officers from the Harrison County Sheriff's Office and Gulfport Police Department bomb squads.

Word was issued to all law officers not to transmit radio messages in vicinity of the jail as a precaution.

Officers found several types of switches and wires running throughout the van.

Inside a large suitcase was found the attaché case with the rigged pistol, which officers reported could be fired from outside by using a key.

Bomb squad experts worked cautiously, opening the attaché case.

Weapons expert, Henry Cook III, a Bay St. Louis attorney and reservist in the Green Berets, described the gun as being Austrian made.

Cook said, "It is a so called 'plastic gun' and holds 17 rounds, weighs only 28 ounces fully loaded and has a very high velocity."

"It is a new weapon as it has only been in production for a couple years and is issued by a number of NATO countries. The frame and magazine are made of a hardened plastic and moving parts are made from metal," Cook added.

The street name for the weapon is the Glock 17, Cook said.

Saturday afternoon officers continued to search the van for possibly other items and also to see if they could possibly find a 22-caliber slug.

Thursday officers found a spent 22-caliber cartridge in the van, which is heavily padded with carpeting.

Peterson indicated the exotic nature of the weapons promoted them to take a very close look at the case.

Further checking is being made on Demchek to determine his most recent whereabouts, Peterson added.

Hancock County Criminal Investigator Glen Strong is assisting the Highway Patrol with the case.

Sheriff asks hunters' be aware of state trespassing laws

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has asked hunters to make themselves aware of trespassing laws.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson stated that his department receives more complaints regarding trespassing during hunting seasons.

He said the complaints are not limited to hunters following their dogs onto private property or blocking private roads and driveways.

Some of the people who call the sheriff's office report incidents that are possibly dangerous, such as shots being fired close to houses, Peterson added.

"I just want to let hunters know," he said, "particularly with another deer season having started Dec. 24."

"I don't want it to sound like we're picking on hunters. There are a lot of good hunters out there who do respect other people's property."

"There are also some who will violate laws to the extent where they do things like tear fences down," the sheriff added.

He said the department will enforce trespassing laws, which in Mississippi include the damage or destruction of notices posted on privately owned lands.

Under Section 97-17-93 of the Mississippi Code, "any person who knowingly enters the lands of another without the permission of or without being accompanied by the landowner or the lessee of the land, or the agent of such landowner or lessee, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be punished upon first offense by a fine of not less than $150 nor more than $250."

Subsequent offenses within five years are punishable by a fine of $250 to $500, 10 to 30 days in the county jail or both.

Enforcement officers include conservation officers in addition to the sheriff, his deputies and county constables.

Management skills key to successful farms

By Linda S. Moore

Cooperative Extension Service GREENVILLE—Farmers are now realizing that production skills are not the only important factor for successful farming. Better financial management skills are just as important to success in agriculture.

"Farmers need to learn how to do a better job at keeping records, managing cash flow and generally managing their farm business," said Dr. David Kohl, a financial management specialist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

By increasing paperwork abilities, farmers can break what Kohl describes as the "three generation syndrome." He said what often happens is one generation builds the business, the second generation holds the business and the third loses the business.

Kohl said the basic factors that will contribute to farming success is the ability to produce cash flow, the ability to pay short-term needs (liquidity) and the ability to pay legal debts (solvency) of the business. The business must also be strong enough to handle the risks involved in the farming economy.

He said farmers will mistakenly ignore the fact that their business is not profitable. Dedication to a job that is enjoyed is good but should not be pursued at the sacrifice of farm-family goals.

Kohl and other farm management experts offered advice to more than 80 farmers who attended a recent farm management seminar here. The seminar was sponsored by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Dr. Dan Cochran, professor of management at Mississippi State University, explained to farmers some of the more important characteristics of good managers.

"A big mistake many managers (especially farmers) have is the tendency to get involved in the technical aspects of the operation and not the managerial responsibilities," Cochran said. "Good managers are good at delegating responsibilities."

He said effective managers must have good communication skills, motivational skills, problem solving skills and wisely manage their time. Farmers also heard from Yalobusha/Grenada County farmer Coley L. Bailey concerning the relationship farmers should have with their lending institutions.

"Be prepared when asking for a loan and have a good reason for the request," Bailey said. "Review your situation thoroughly to make sure you are asking for enough money. Don't leave anything out."

Bailey said that in addition to seeking advice from other farmers, talk to county agents and/or specialists with the Extension Service for advice on the type and amount of loan and the best lending institution to use.

Dr. John Ikard, an Extension Service economist with the University of Georgia, told farmers that one of the purposes of farming is to make a profit, but that is only one of the purposes.

Eugene Little to be new MHP trooper in Hancock County

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Hancock County's newest Mississippi State Highway Patrolman is M. Eugene Little Jr., 23, of Moss Point.

Little is one of seven graduates of the 45th class from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy to be assigned to District 8, which includes Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, Stone and George counties.

New District 8 troopers and their assignments are Little, Hancock County; Roy Clington, Wiggins; Thomas Ray Saul, Gulfport; Joseph A. Johnson, Pascagoula; Roy A. Fullerton, George County; Matthew Gospodinovich Jr., Pascagoula; Kevin S. Hayes, Gulfport.

These troopers were in a 47-member class which recently completed a 13-week training program and were commissioned as troopers in the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol.

Trooper Little, a member of the Marine Corps, is a graduate of Moss Point High School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Little Sr. of Moss Point.

Trooper Little will begin his duties Monday in Hancock County.

"I am really looking forward to working as a state trooper. I have been trying for the past two and a half years to get a job with the highway patrol," Little said.

He is joining Troopers Freddie Keel, Houston Dorr, David Kenney and Glen Grice who are currently assigned to Hancock County.

Little will be riding with Keel for the next 30 days.

In the commencement address during graduation ceremonies Governor Bill Allain thanked the graduates for accepting the duties and responsibilities of a "proud, proud organization."

The graduates took the oath of office and received commissions Dec. 18 in the gymnasium at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy in Rankin County.

"We are grateful to the State of Mississippi for giving us a job with the state's premier law enforcement agency where we will be joining the ranks of more than 500 officers who currently represent the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol with dignity, pride and courage," said Class President John Larry Waggoner of Morton.

"We are proud to be able to participate in the upcoming 50th anniversary of such an outstanding and service-oriented agency," said Waggoner.

Theodore Roosevelt Crystian Jr. of Port Gibson, chaplain of the class gave the invocation and benediction during the graduation ceremonies.

CRP CONTRACTS

The most recent signup period for USDA's Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) in July 1987, brought total signup to over 200,000 contracts covering almost 23 million acres. The 23 million acres enrolled provide erosion savings of roughly 480 million tons annually, according to USDA officials.

Franklin A. Gennin, County Executive Director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, said USDA approved 47 contracts for 6,891.7 acres for Pearl River and 19 contracts for 2757.5 acres for Hancock in the first 5 signups.

"The erosion savings are obtained by establishing permanent cover or implementing other specific soil conservation practices on the enrolled acres," Gennin said.

Approximately 88.5 percent of the total CRP acres enrolled are to be covered with grass; a little more than 5 percent will be placed in trees; about 4 percent will be used for wildlife habitat; while the remainder is already in grass, trees or other conservation practices. Program participation is greatest in areas with the greatest amount of eligible, highly erodible, cropland. The Corn Belt and Northern Plains regions have the most eligible cropland, over 40 percent of the U.S. total.

However, the Mountain and Southern Plains regions, which have the third and fourth most eligible cropland, have the highest proportion of eligible cropland, with 36 and 31 percent, respectively.

The next CRP signup is scheduled in February 1988.

Quotables by CUEVAS

On Christmas Day we noted many youngsters of all ages with new bicycles.

Some were experienced riders while others were just learning how to ride or handle a larger bike.

This is a time for motorists to be extremely careful when they see youngsters on bicycles.

Parents, too, should make sure their children have proper instructions in operation of bicycles in addition to an understanding of traffic rules.

Nothing frightens me more than to see a group of youngsters bike riding and when approached by a motorist, they split and end up on both sides of the road.

We want everyone with a new bicycle to enjoy himself to the fullest, but also be careful.

Have you driven on the 500 block of State Street in Bay St. Louis recently?

It is hard to realize a street only one block off Main Street in a city would have so many bumps in only a one-block section.

It appears efforts have been made to patch the street, but still the bumps are in the road.

We know the residents of State Street would surely appreciate a resurfacing.

This is the time of the year to review the resolutions we made at the beginning of 1987 and think about those for 1988.

It is hard to keep those New Year's Resolutions only for a few days sometimes, yet there are those who keep them throughout the year.

So we have five days to plan on the resolutions for 1988.

I have to get back into my walking routine to lose some of the excessive weight gained during holidays.

It seems the holidays always comes during a time when we have so many things to do and all we do is eat and forget to exercise.

I do not feel I am the only person with this problem.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. What is post polio syndrome and what are its symptoms? Mrs. GF, Mandeville, La.

A. According to Dr. Mary Nell Anderson, a physical medicine and rehabilitation specialist at the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge, people who had polio in their earlier years and are now experiencing those same symptoms again, may be suffering from post polio syndrome.

Although a diagnosis of this condition cannot be made without a complete patient history and a thorough physical examination along with appropriate laboratory tests, some of the symptoms which may occur are unaccustomed fatigue, muscle pain or weakness, or joint pain.

Not all people who had polio will experience this syndrome, but it occurs more often in people who had contracted polio after the age of ten, were ventilator dependent, and had paralysis of all four limbs.

A rehabilitative specialist can provide proper management to assist patients with post polio syndrome in maintaining a functional way of life as close as possible to that which was experienced prior to the onset of the new symptoms.

Specific exercises and new lightweight braces can be prescribed to help alleviate stress on the affected muscles, and energy saving and relaxation techniques can be taught to combat the fatigue and breathing problems sometimes associated with post polio syndrome.

In addition to the physical rehabilitation, several post polio support groups are forming throughout the country to help sufferers of this condition cope more effectively with this potential new disability.

Mississippi House of Representatives

JACKSON—Hundreds of friends from throughout Mississippi, including many past and present legislative colleagues, joined recently in an impressive tribute to retiring House Speaker C.B. "Buddie" Newman in recognition of his 40 years of service to the state and its people.

The veteran legislative leader from Issaquena County was hailed by Representative Ed Perry of Oxford as a man whose motto has always been: "Do what's best for Mississippi."

This is the advice Newman has given consistently to legislators and others. Perry told an overflow crowd of well-wishers gathered in the House Chamber. Perry was principal speaker at the afternoon program.

A proclamation was issued by Governor Bill Allain designating the day, Dec. 15, 1987, as "Speaker C.B. (Buddie) Newman Day."

In the proclamation, the Governor said the Speaker's "efforts and accomplishments are well known and have earned him the respect of all who know him and reflect great credit upon himself, the Mississippi Legislature and the State of Mississippi."

Highlights included the unveiling of the Speaker's official portrait, to be placed in the house foyer with those of other former Speakers; the presentation of an award in honor of Newman's untiring efforts to promote a friendly relationship and cooperation between Mississippi and the Republic of China; and a closing dinner sponsored by the private sector and attended by leaders in business and commerce, agriculture, government, and education.

Former State Senator Ellis Bodron of Vicksburg said he hoped those who have "found it fashionable" to criticize Newman in recent years would take note of the outstanding citizens who flocked to Jackson from all parts of the state to participate in the tribute.

A citation naming Newman a "Friend of Free China" was presented by Shih-Cheng Chang, Director General, Coordination Council for North American Affairs Office in Houston, hailing Newman as "an outstanding statesman, erudite in learning and endowed with farsightedness."

Newman was praised repeatedly for his leadership in industrial development, agriculture, and education. Representative Perry, a longtime colleague, cited Newman's "disdain for sectionalism" in working to promote all parts of the state, and said the Speaker "taught us that loyalty is a noble virtue, that loyalty to your convictions and loyalty to your friends is not a concept of the past."

Mrs. Newman and several members of the Newman family participated in the events, including the formal unveiling of the Speaker's painting by world renowned portrait artist Marshall Boudin III of Clarksdale.

Others on the afternoon program included Speaker Pro Tempore Cecil Simmons and Representatives Jim Simpson of Long Beach, Robert Clark of Ebenezer, Harry Bryan of Batesville, H.L. "Sonny" Merideth of Greenville, Jimmy Morrow of Brandon, Dick Hall of Jackson, and Ed Jackson of Cleveland.

Representative Charlie Williams of Senatobia served as master of ceremonies at the dinner, featuring entertainment by Paul Ott and tributes to Newman from former Senator Bodron; former Representative Walter Brown of Natchez; Dr. Walter Washington, President, Alcorn State University; Chancery Clerk Lynn Presley of Jackson County; Jimmy Heidel, Executive Vice President, Vicksburg/Warren County Chamber of Commerce; and Chip Morgan, Executive Vice President, Delta Council.

An official of the State Department of Agriculture, Cooper Walton, announced that Newman had been selected as a member of the Mississippi Agriculture Hall of Fame.

Welcoming remarks were by Jackson attorney Edmund L. Brunini, Chairman of the Steering Committee for the dinner. The invocation was by Rev. Joseph Brunini, Bishop Emeritus of the Catholic Diocese of Jackson.

In closing, Newman stressed that many share in the achievements attributed to him. "You can't do it alone. Whatever we've done, we've done together," Newman said.

Newman began his legislative career in 1948 following his election to the State Senate. He switched to the House of Representatives in 1952 and has been a member of the House since then. He has been Speaker since 1976 and served as Acting Speaker in 1974 and 1975. He announced last spring he would retire following the current term.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

SPACE EXPLORATION MUST MOVE FORWARD

When the United States first began its exploration of space in 1958, few people thought we would ever achieve the level of technical expertise we have today. Over the years, we have sent man to the moon, developed a reusable spacecraft, and are now working toward establishing a permanent presence in space through the space station.

Hundreds of men and women have contributed to our success in space exploration. They have given of their energies, their time, their talents - and, in some cases, even their lives - to make our country a world leader in space.

We have made tremendous progress in this space technology.

We have benefited economically and scientifically from the knowledge gained during our exploration of space.

Through the years, Mississippi has played an increasingly important role in our national space program. Mississippians Fred Haise, Donald Peterson and Richard Truly have been outstanding representatives of our state as astronauts. Today, Dick Truly serves as associate administrator for space flight, responsible for recovery of shuttle system operations.

Thousands of Mississippians have been involved in development of the space shuttle through their work at the National Space Technologies Laboratory (NSTL) in Bay St. Louis. NSTL will continue to play a major role in our space program as they test all rocket engines necessary for the space shuttle, a key ingredient to the space station.

While the space program has had great success, there have also been setbacks. The Challenger tragedy in January 1986 and the loss of those seven lives caused many to believe that our space program was not worth the risks involved. However, I believe very strongly that we must move ahead in the same determined way as all those who have given their lives for scientific advancement.

I recently attended a fund raiser to benefit the space program that was attended by family members of each of the seven Challenger astronauts. While each of these families has been devastated by their loss, each is very determined that our space program continue. Their commitment to our space program was a very challenging thing to see.

While it is essential that we prioritize our spending and bring our federal deficit under control, we must look ahead to the future of our country. The next logical step in space exploration is the establishment of a permanent space station that will assure world leadership in space for our country in the 1990's and beyond. We must be committed to this important program that will enhance our capabilities for scientific learning while stimulating our nation's economic development and defense programs.

For those planning to drive after drinking, "Plan Ahead," says AAA

Question: Which drink has more alcohol: a shot of whiskey, a glass of wine or a mug of beer?

Answer: In standard servings, beer, wine and liquor contain roughly the same amount of alcohol.

That means holiday travelers should be wary of thinking that some drinks are less intoxicating than others, says the American Automobile Association.

"It's important to decide beforehand how much and how often you're going to drink, and stick to the plan," said George Scheffel, AAA Mississippi's manager of emergency road service and traffic safety.

"If you wait until you've had a few drinks to make such a decision, your thinking is muddled, and you're likely to drink more than you can handle."

After just one drink, a person's judgement can be impaired enough to affect vision, hearing, reaction time and balance.

At least half of all traffic-related deaths are alcohol-related. After four drinks, a person is 10 times as likely as a non-drinker to have an accident.

In addition, the amount of alcohol in one's bloodstream does not start to decline the moment a person stops drinking, said Scheffel. "It can take an hour or more for the blood alcohol concentration (BAC) to start decreasing," Scheffel said. "You shouldn't think that the moment you stop drinking, it's safe to drive. You could be dead wrong."

A good rule of thumb is to drink no more than one alcoholic beverage per hour. But Scheffel urges drivers to consult Blood Alcohol Concentration tables to determine how much one can safely drink over a period of time. These tables match a person's body weight with the number of drinks consumed over divergent periods of time to show the amount of alcohol absorbed in the bloodstream.

"A person's weight influences the amount of alcohol he or she can drink before becoming impaired," said Scheffel, "so it's important to remember that you and your friends probably don't have the same tolerance. Even if two of you are the same weight, alcohol will seldom have the same effect."

Scheffel is quick to debunk some of the myths about drinking. "Some people think it's possible for a drinker to get sober quickly by drinking coffee, taking a cold shower or exercising vigorously."

That's not true. It takes a certain period of time for alcohol to leave the body, and nothing can speed up the process. The human body burns up about one-half ounce of alcohol in one hour. So if you've had two glasses of wine, it will take about two and a half hours before the alcohol is out of your bloodstream."

Scheffel also said that, contrary to popular belief, one can get intoxicated on a full stomach. "Food in the stomach means that alcohol is absorbed more slowly, but all the alcohol still gets absorbed," he said.

AAA offers the following tips for those planning to drive after attending a party where alcohol is served:

► Don't drink alcoholic beverages unless you really want to. If you feel awkward about refusing a drink, accept it and set it down after awhile. Get a soft drink instead.

► If you decide to drink, set a limit of how many drinks you will have, and stick to it. No one else is counting.

► Sip your drink slowly. If you "nurse" it this way, your glass will never get empty, and you won't be tempted to fill it.

► Don't let others pressure you into drinking. Only you know what is best for you.

► Even if you have had only one or two drinks, wait an hour or two before driving.

► If you drink too heavily, plan to stay with a friend or have someone else drive you home. With a group of friends, a "designated driver" is a good idea.

The American Automobile Association is a federation of Motor Clubs with more than 1,000 clubs and branches serving over 28 million members in the United States and Canada.

Numbers show the percentage of alcohol in the blood, based on the person's weight, the number of drinks, and the period of time in which the drinks were consumed. A dash (—) indicates a trace of alcohol. For example, a person weighing 120 pounds and having three drinks in one hour would have a Blood Alcohol Concentration (BAC) of .05. One drink equals 12 oz. of beer, 5 oz. of wine, or 1 1/2 oz. of liquor. If your weight falls between two figures on the chart, use the lower weight. In many states, a BAC of .05 is considered legally impaired.

Preparing for impact of new tax laws

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Although preparing tax returns has seldom been considered an enjoyable experience, the Tax Reform Act of 1986 will contribute to making this year's return even more difficult to prepare.

"There were more changes in the tax law in 1986 than in the history of the law," said Dr. Bob Martin, agricultural economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

He said that even before the major changes, the law was getting to the point that professional help was highly recommended. But, with the new changes, professional help is almost a must, he said.

"Anyone who does their own taxes is likely to miss something that a professional would not miss," Martin said. "Probably the difference in what he pays the professional and what he would have missed will more than pay for the work."

Martin said time is another important factor to consider. For someone to study the law and be competent enough to do their own return, so much time will be involved that they will not have time for other involvements.

He said it is possible that completing the returns will take longer for the professional, also. Therefore, people may want to take time into consideration and deliver the necessary documents early and orderly.

Janet K. Lukens, a consumer money management specialist with MCES, said taxpayers should begin preparing by gathering income information, such as wages, capital gains and losses, and rental property income and losses.

"Capital losses will be allowed in full but only up to $3,000," Lukens said. "Rental losses up to $25,000 are allowed to offset earned income but you must manage the property yourself and have adjusted gross income under $100,000."

She said IRA deductions are now limited for those covered by an employer retirement plan with incomes over $25,000 (single) and $40,000 (joint returns). "Check your income and employer benefits and the specific IRA amounts allowed to find out if you should contribute to an IRA this year," Lukens said.

Beverly S. Riggs, a family economics and management specialist with MCES, noted one of the changes occurred in the area of deductions. Standard deductions have increased and allowable deductions have decreased.

She said the combined effect could make it harder for many taxpayers to deduct some expenses they previously deducted. The standard deduction is the amount the taxpayer's deductions must surpass to allow itemizing for increased deductions. Those who do not itemize will not be able to deduct charitable contributions.

The standard deductions have increased from $3,670 to $5,000 for married couples filing jointly, from $2,480 to $4,400 for heads of households and from $2,480 to $3,000 for singles.

Another area of deductions that taxpayers will no longer benefit from is credit card interest. Riggs said that for 1987, only 65 percent will be deductible instead of the 100 percent allowed in the past. The Internal Revenue Service will continue to gradually lower the percentage until it is completely eliminated in 1991.

Lukens said that since sales tax deductions are no longer allowed, the only tax records needed will be those for income and property taxes. "Keep records on interest paid because 65 percent of those amounts are deductible," she said.

A credit that is still allowed is the child care credit.

"Keep these records for up to 30 percent of the child care expenses you pay," Lukens said.

"Summarize your tax information before you carry a sack full of cancelled checks and receipts to your accountant," Riggs said. "Organization should cut down on the time it will take to prepare your return."

"Regardless of whether you fare better or worse under the new law, you will have to make adjustments in recordkeeping," Lukens said. "Know what records you will need for the lowest possible tax bill this year."

1987 agriculture census scheduled

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Mississippi farm operators will participate in a national census of agriculture conducted by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau between late December and Feb. 1.

The purpose of the census, which is conducted every five years, is to provide a detailed picture of agriculture on a county, state and national level. Information gained can be compared with the data received from the 1982 census.

Dr. Bob Williams, an agricultural economics leader with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, stressed the importance of completing and returning the information as accurately as possible.

Williams said the data will be reviewed by numerous groups including individual farmers, the Department of Agriculture and Congress in order to make business and policy decisions that will effect the future of agriculture.

"Decisions based on poor information in many cases turn out to be poor decisions," he said. "Decisions based on good information have a much greater chance of being good decisions."

The data gathered will focus on specific information including the number of farms, farm size, operator characteristics, production, sales and financial conditions.

Forms will be mailed to more than 2 million farm and ranch operators in the nation late in December. Information requested will be similar to that gathered in 1982 including land use and ownership, crop acreages and quantities harvested and numbers of livestock and poultry.

Some of the information gathered will be different from the previous census, which provided data only for selected farm production expenses. Williams said the census undergoes some changes each year it is conducted, reflecting the changes occurring in agriculture.

Williams said that because of the increased financial problems occurring in the nation, this year's census will contain more questions on the financial condition of the farm operators.

He said all individual data obtained will remain confidential and only an overall picture will be presented from the census. Government agencies will not be able to obtain individual records.

For the 1987 survey, the Census Bureau solicited the advice of farmers, farm organizations, agricultural universities, as well as state and federal agencies. The 1987 census, in response to the users' needs, will include information on all production expenses.

The report forms will vary from region to region to decrease the burden on respondents. Only 20 percent of the surveys distributed will include questions on fertilizer and chemicals, machinery and equipment, market value of land and buildings and the income from farm-related sources.

Cotton leads pack in farm recovery

Cotton led a recovery trend in Mississippi agriculture in 1987 with gains in acreage harvested, yields harvested and higher prices.

"Cotton became king of the hill again in '87 with farm production valued at $702 million," said Dr. O.A. Cleveland, a cotton economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Cotton experienced sharp gains on several fronts: acres harvested increased 100,000 acres; yields increased 179 pounds of lint cotton per acre to 750 pounds; and cotton prices increased sharply."

Cleveland said the increase in value of the cotton crop accounted for more than half of the increase in the total value of production in 1987.

"The outlook for cotton in 1988 remains bright," he continued. "Consumption in both domestic and foreign markets has increased sharply in recent years, and stocks are being reduced to low levels. With favorable weather conditions and good yields, cotton farmers should do well in 1988."

Cleveland said global prospects for cotton demand next year are expected to moderately exceed production. He said production is projected to be up about one-tenth from the '87 season.

"The total value of poultry and eggs was $512 million, down $61 million from 1986," Forrest said.

"While poultry and egg producers may continue to make a profit in 1988, the outlook is not as bright because of continued increases in production, especially in broilers," Forrest said.

the highest class score of 95.6 for academic, firearms and physical training proficiency by Assistant Chief of Patrol Lieutenant Colonel Donald L. O'Cain.

Cadets were instructed to be considerate to legislators and public officials, cooperative and respectful to the courts and cooperative with other law enforcement officers and agencies by Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr.

He also told them to eliminate frivolities and petty jealousies and to be as nice as they can be but as tough as they have to be.

"As you become an officer of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol you become a part of an important 50-year history and tradition of courtesy, service and safety. Do not alter that tradition to its detriment but build upon it, add to it and become a valued part of it," Roberts said.

The graduation concluded a 13-week training period that began Sept. 20.

With these graduates there is a total of 550 sworn officers including 424 white males, 117 black males, five white females and four black females.

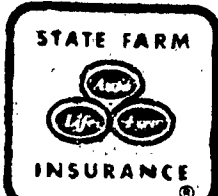

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol is authorized for 588 sworn positions.

Hardwood prices push forest values upward

Hardwood prices led other forest products to take the value of forestry up to $500 million in 1987.

The forestry value improved from $478 million in 1986.

"Forest products prospects will continue favorable through this year, but the October market decline could adversely affect housing demand in 1988," said Dr. Bob Martin, an economist with the Mississippi Extension Service.

Martin said markets for major timber products in 1987 have been mixed, and current economic conditions point to lower levels of demand in 1988.

"Most important for the major softwood products are the prospective declines in housing and other construction," Martin said. "The outlook for hardwoods will be most affected by the trends in the manufacture and shipment of consumer and other goods.

Martin said a bright spot in forestry within Mississippi has been the continued expansion or relocation of forestry processing plants in the state.

"This has been a big plus for our forest industry," he said.

The Happy Gardener

Poinsettia Care

The flowering poinsettia in red, white, pink or marbled combinations is a spectacular symbol of the Yuletide Season. The plant was originally discovered by the French horticulturist Pointsett, who found it growing in the wild near Taxco, Mexico, in the 1st century. Although the commercially grown poinsettias now widely marketed have been cultivated to withstand indoor growing conditions, these plants still prefer the environment of their native origin, or as close to that as you can manage.

Sunlight is especially essential to a flowering poinsettia. When the light is direct, eastern or southern exposure, these plants can flower for up to three months. What they need in order to flower is a minimum of several hours of bright sun every day, and general bright exposure for most of the day. Place poinsettia plants as close to the light source as you can, but be sure there are no drafts coming in through the window. Cold air will kill this plant.

Give poinsettia plenty of moisture, but never let the soil get soggy. Water it well when the soil feels dry to the touch, then drain off any excess water that flows into the dish or saucer under the pot. (Drainage holes in poinsettia pots are essential.) Misting is also important; do it at least every other day, and daily when the plant is in flower.

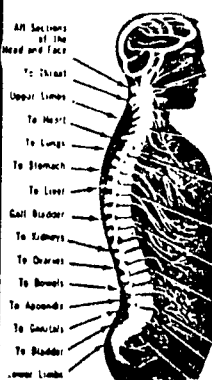

When the poinsettia stops flowering altogether, it will drop all off the flower bracts or petals and some of the green leaves as well. This signals a dormant phase, time to move the plant to a less sunny spot and reduce watering. In the spring, start giving it more sun, and more water, and if you want it to flower again, put it in total darkness every night for about six weeks before Christmas.
